"We all work together to help one another"

Community Partnerships in Action...

Walking our talk. Slowly but surely Ma Mawi continues to find ways to walk our talk when it comes to returning the authority and responsibility for self-care and community wellness back to the community we support.

This year, the community continued to experience commitment from all levels to supporting the positive growth and development of families. Time and again, caring individuals, families, youth, service providers and funders have come together to share their dreams and aspirations for healthy families and healthy communities.

Truly, we are just beginning to see the tremendous potential of real and lasting partnerships. And when we move our words to action, the synergy we create as a community is remarkable. Working together, Ma Mawi and our many partners will continue to journey down the path of becoming a community that "works together to help one another".
